

Site Review Notes

Hi Bridget!

I really love the changes you've made since the mock-up, and I really see this site coming together! The color scheme is exactly what I envisioned, you really hit the mark with it. I also am enjoying the new font changes, and I think the serif typeface for the display type adds an elegant quality to it.

Here are a few things I noted that you could consider adding or changing:

- I feel like the navigation bar text would look better using the sans serif font, because the serif one seems to be used as more of a display type, and the smaller text of the nav bar is more legible as a sans serif font.
- When you click on the "Alleged Secret Recipes" page, the navigation bar gets kind of messed up
- The "top secret" image gets kind of lost on the dark gray background, it might be helpful to quickly brighten that in Photoshop
- The responsiveness of the text looks great, but when I make the window smaller, sometimes the images get cut off or resize kind of weird
- I like the active state of the nav bar, but it might look cooler with a dark shadow rather than a light one, to make the word really look like its popping out.

Overall, really impressive work and I'm so happy with the site!
